Within the framework of the call for proposals launched by PSL and entitled Global Studies- Initiatives of Strategic Interdisciplinary Research, we will organize a one-and-half day workshop, dedicated to a comparative study on landscape history and different forms of economic and political control of coastal lagoon environment. It will be held in Paris on 27th and 28th November 2017.

This meeting is thought as a confrontation between various geographic situations (notably the coastal region around Hue in Vietnam and the Adriatic and Tyrrhenian coastlines in Italy), within the framework of common issues, which every participant is invited to tackle.
